

Every constituent split into two equal halves at angle δ (solid), or three particles of momentum fraction ϵ added (dashed). A collinear-safe observable returns to zero as $\delta \rightarrow 0$. n_{g0} does not: a democratic split doubles it, however small the angle. Both observables are infrared safe.