

Within a W slice the current jet carries a nearly fixed momentum in the colour rest frame ($\approx W/3$ here), so moving along a line changes only how the lab frame sees that same jet: compressed into the $R = 0.4$ cone when boosted forward (right), opened up and partly lost when it recoils against the boost (left).